The LCO Group –
Supplementing an existing IT staff or consultant

Many small to mid-size businesses get by reasonably well with their existing IT support structure, without realizing that specialized services that work with – and do not seek to displace - their existing network engineers are available. The LCO Group is an industry leader in providing these high-level business services, and can help your business maximize productivity and reduce risk exposure.

Specialist Engineers for Specialist Tasks

The LCO Group employs first-class IT consultants that bring a specialists knowledge and expertise to our clients. While 'generalist' network support engineers have their place, to truly maximize the application of technology a specialist is often required.

Our staff-augmentation offerings range from compliance audits, expenditure analysis, program architecture and database design, disaster recovery and business continuity planning and implementation, high availability networking solutions, internet/ecommerce solutions, business documentation, virtual CIO/IT governance, and others. We employ and work with technology leaders such IBM, Cisco, and Microsoft to ensure that our engineers are always knowledgeable in the latest product offerings, and our Recertification programs help keep us on the cutting edge of technology.

Working As Part of Your Team

At The LCO Group, we do not try to impose our framework or culture onto our clients - we recognize that we are part of their team - and everything we do keeps that simple principle in mind. Communication and documentation rank amongst our highest priorities - and we strive to keep our partners - our clients - fully informed and involved in the entire decision making process.

Contact Us Today for a Free Consultation– and take your technology to the next level.

At The LCO Group, we start off all client engagements with a free, onsite consultation with a trained, experienced, and certified engineer - not a simple salesmen. We will discuss your technology, its application to your business, and how other firms are employing technology to gain a competitive edge.
